Candidate rhetorical occurrence

From The Encyclopedia of Arabic Rhetoric

A candidate rhetorical occurrence is a potential rhetorical occurrence identified in discourse for further analysis and possible classification.

The designation candidate reflects the annotator's provisional assessment rather than an inherent characteristic of the phenomenon. A candidate rhetorical occurrence may subsequently be accepted, rejected or remain unresolved following rhetorical analysis.

About this page

Created 24 November 2026

Modified 24 November 2026

Cite this page

Name Candidate rhetorical occurrence

Use this page

Download PDF JSON HTML

Categories: Glossary of Terms Related to Arabic Rhetoric | General Terms

Cite this page: Dr Mandar Marathe (2026). "Candidate rhetorical occurrence". Encyclopedia of Arabic Rhetoric. https://al-balagha.com/wiki/Candidate_rhetorical_occurrence